Although many government and industry officials are convinced that radiation of foods is safe and effective, I would prefer that we protect our food supply through better care and handling and improved sanitation in the production plant.

I oppose radiation, both on the account of food safety [I realize that food and not be radioactive and add more concerned about more subtle changes in the food] and because I do not want to see radioactive materials trucked about any more than necessary.

If you to decide to allow more radiation of foods, then by all means provide me with adequate labeling so I can buy alternative foods.
